Recoveries and slides relating in vertical primary substructure

The number of wall holders is defined by structural design.

With several carrier rails on top of each other, their total length and the distance between the recoveries of two adjacent rails must not exceed 2.80 m.